

HK Institute of Quantum Science & Technology

香港量子研究院

Mission and Vision

The institute will bring together leading physicists, engineers, computer scientists and mathematicians to work on the research frontiers of quantum science and technology, including quantum information, quantum materials, and quantum AI and their applications. The institute will not only provide world-class platform to carry out both theoretical and experimental research, but also establish strong exchange and visitors' programs both internationally and with mainland China.